The Power of RCI.com

RCI® puts the world of vacation exchange at your fingertips—but with access to over 4,300 resorts in 110 countries, how do you find the vacation that's right for you? RCI.com helps make planning your next vacation a snap!*

FAST AND EASY SEARCH

As soon as you log in to RCI.com, you're ready to go! You begin with all available exchange options. Just start typing in a destination, and the site will start narrowing down to your results even before you click "Search." Or click on the map to search your desired destination. Add your preferred time frame to further customize your results.

UPDATED ACCOUNT DASHBOARD AND REDESIGNED MY ACCOUNT PAGE

You have your account information right at your fingertips. Click "My Account" to see your vital stats in your Account Dashboard, and then click "Go to My Account" for a complete view of all your member information.

SEARCH LIKE A PRO

Once you have logged in and narrowed down your results, click on "View Advanced Filters" for powerful search tools.

VACATION TYPES Use this filter to look for destinations worldwide that meet your needs. If you know you want a beach vacation, click the check box for "Beaches"; the numbers next to each type show you exactly how many vacations are available.

RESORT ACTIVITIES If you know what you'd like to do on vacation, or if you want to try something new—windsurfing, anyone?—and are considering a variety of destinations, this is a great way to refine your search. Click on your desired activities and your results will be filtered accordingly.

RESORT AMENITIES This is a great tool for narrowing down your search to specific resorts after you've picked your vacation type. For example, if a pool is a must for your family, this filter will show you only the resorts that have pools.

PLUS:

YOU CAN TAKE IT WITH YOU

RCI.com is designed to look great and function seamlessly no matter what device you are viewing the website on. Access your account and start a search wherever you are, anytime!

How to Plan a Successful Family Vacation

Bring everyone together with these tips.

If you're hesitating to take time off because you're intimidated by the prospect of planning a family vacation, you're not alone—it's not always easy crafting a vacation that appeals to everyone. But when planned properly, traveling with family members can improve relationships between grandparents and grandkids, brothers and sisters, parents and children. Follow these simple guidelines for a getaway that'll help keep every generation happy.

Plan ahead

First things first: Set aside your vacation dates early. According to Katie Denis, chief of research and strategy at Project: Time Off, one of the biggest challenges people face is finding the time and committing to it. “The single most important thing you can do is block the calendar, even if you don’t know what you’re going to do yet,” she says. It also gives everyone something to look forward to and plenty of fodder for dinner-table conversations.

Get the kids involved

A report by Project: Time Off, showed that including children—particularly older (and more opinionated) ones—in planning is a great way to bond before a vacation. When the time comes to actually participate in the chosen activity, they’re more likely to be engaged. And while theme parks may be on many a dream list, the children surveyed (ages 8 to 14) mentioned enjoying simpler activities, such as going to the zoo.

Pick a destination that’s good for all ages

You’ve likely heard it before: You can’t please all of the people all of the time. But you can come close by visiting a place that appeals to everyone (and that matches everyone’s physical abilities). Older grandparents and smaller children may not be able to take strenuous hikes or speed down the slopes, for example. Beach getaways can be ideal because you can be as active or as laid-back as you please. Big cities where there are plenty of museums and sights to see are also a great choice because they allow for a great deal of flexibility.

Start a tradition

Many people have fond memories of renting the same beach house or ski lodge or lake cabin every year—and Denis says there is value in this type of ritual, particularly with children. “If you establish something early, they’re more likely to carry it on into adulthood,” she says. Instill good habits by planning an annual vacation, whether it’s to the same destination year after year or the same type of place, such as always traveling to a beach in January.

Aranyawas

Aranyawas is set in a wild, mountain valley, hidden away from the outside world. The natural terrain is formed of rugged mountainside with outcrops of rock and indigenous forest. A small part of the resort has been tamed with orchards of guava, various types of mango, awla, cherry, lychee, lime, orange, pomegranate and chikoo trees. There are also apricots and figs, all of which thrive in the microclimate of the area, which is cooler than the lowlands and enjoys a summer maximum temperature of 30 degrees, though the winter nighttime temperature can drop to almost freezing point.
